

One

Charlie: [smiling broadly] Good morning class...

Nicole: I don't want to sit here... (she stands)

Charlie: ...and welcome to the...

Nicole: I'd rather be by the window. (she starts dragging her desk and chair)

Charlie: ...Time travel introductory workshop for the temporally challenged.

Jason: The what?

Charlie: Time travel introductory workshop for the temporally challenged.

Jason: Temporarily challenged? I don't think my challenges are temporary, luv.

Kylie: Old, Jason. Temporally challenged means old.

Jason: Oh, well, yeah, that too.

Nicole: (Having moved and sat in her chair). Oh, now it's too breezy. Can anyone feel a breeze? (She gets up, starts moving again.)

Charlie: Ah, now Kylie, I have to correct you there. Temporally challenged is simply a term we use for elders in our community who are unfamiliar with the techniques of time travel.

Nicole: (Back where she started) I thought this was a travel talk.

Charlie: Well, it is travel in a sense...

Nicole: I always fancied going to Antarctica.

Charlie: This isn't a travel talk, I'm afraid. (Her smile is getting more strained).

Two

Kylie: [moving across the stage in the direction of the portal] I'm talking about actions and consequences.

Charlie: I don't see what...

Kylie: I mean, look what Jason and Nicole have been able to do in one morning?

Charlie: Oh my god, I know...

Jason: Worth it though!

Kylie: Do you imagine for a second this hasn't happened before?

Charlie: Before?

Kylie: That the trio of egomaniacs who invented this infernal thing didn't do exactly what our dimwitted little hedonistic duo here have?

Nicole: Hey!

Jason: Harsh!

Kylie: I told them from the start what would happen.

Charlie: Jason and Nicole?

Kylie: [still moving towards the portal] No, Zuck and his merry band of temporal terrorists. They never considered the consequences. They just invented this stuff because they could!